

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

An invention consisting of a stationary rod for holding rolled or bagged paper materials, which rod is surrounded by an extendable sleeve and butt plate assembly to discharge rolled materials resting on the end of the stationary rod intended to provide a newspaper carrier or other individual utilizing a motor vehicle for delivery of newspapers or other rolled materials to quickly place the rolled materials into receiving containers outside of the vehicle while occupying the driver's seat of the vehicle.